

Are you a high school student or teacher interested in learning more about social justice, international relations and making the world a better place?

The Third Annual
Summer Institute for Human Rights and Genocide Studies
Weekdays from 9 AM- 3 PM
July 19th-23rd and July 26th-30th

Located here in Western New York, this award-winning, nationally recognized program is designed to help students and teachers make a difference in their world.

Speakers at this year's Institute will include Congressman Brian Higgins, Nuremberg eyewitness Ken Hechler, International Criminal Court prosecutor David Crane, Nazi hunter Eli Rosenbaum, genocide expert John Heffernan, along with several Holocaust and conflict zone survivors, including Burmese Human Rights activist Myo Thant, Rwandan Victor Habinshuti, and Darfurian Awadiya Yahia.

Some highlights from last year's program:

From left: Some of our students with Nuremberg Prosecutor William Caming, Darfurian Refugee Awadiya Yahia, and Nobel Prize Winner Elie Wiesel

While our primary location will be the Erie 1 BOCES center on Harlem Road in West Seneca, several sessions will be on-site at the locations of our sponsors around Western New York, to which transportation will be provided.

Applications and other related information will soon be posted online at www.summerinstituteofbuffalo.org If you are from the Southern Tier, please consider attending our sister academy, the Chautauqua County Summer Institute for Human Rights and Genocide Studies, with information available at <http://www.ccsommerinstitute.org>

We also kindly ask that teachers pass this information along to any students who might be interested in such a program. Any inquiries or questions can be sent to Summer Institute Project Director Andrew Beiter at abeiter@springvillegi.org or to the Chautauqua Director Leigh-Anne Hendrick at lhendrick@clake.org